A poem about Covid-19

Covid-19 had us all shocked.
Because of the virus we had to stay locked.
Inside of our houses, nowhere to go.
And for how long? We all didn't know.

And what about school in these different times?
Well, all of the students had to study online.
We were given tasks by the teachers online,
And for many people that wasn't fine.

Some tasks were given on Saturday morning.
A lot of them were so terribly boring.
Some students fell asleep although they should've learned.
But just something else had we then concerned:

What about friends in these different times?
Most stayed inside and just talked online.
But some of them would still meet each other
They'd hug each other as if they were brothers.

Some of the folks were behaving nice and good.
Some of the people didn't obey as they should.
So we see 2020 is so very mean.
And this is what happened during Covid-19.
